FIRST-YEAR LAUNCH SECTION

This Lecture will be combined with other PHYS 118 sections, and it will be taught as a large survey class. PHYS 118-401, the Lab associated with this class, is the FY-Launch section. Please be sure to enroll in this class, PHYS 118-02F, and the corresponding lab, PHYS 118-401, to fulfill the FY-LAUNCH requirement.

IDEAS IN ACTION GEN EDS: FY-LAUNCH; FC-NATSCI or FC-QUANT

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?

Only first-year students (and transfer students who completed <24 hours of post-high school college coursework at another institution before their first semester at UNC) can enroll in this class. If you are a transfer student, refer to the UNC Catalog.

PHYS 118H.02F | Introductory Calculus-based Mechanics and Relativity
MWF, 9:05 am - 9:55 am. Instructor(s): . Enrollment = 35.
PHYS118 is a calculus-based introduction to Classical Mechanics. The course covers motion and kinematics in one and two dimensions, forces and Newton's laws of motion, work-energy and conservation laws, frames of reference and Einstein's theory of special relativity, rigid-body rotations, rolling, static...
equilibrium, and oscillations and waves.
The honors version of this course is differentiated by requiring a final project and presentation. Early in the semester, each honors student will identify a project of interest and submit the idea to the instructor, who will evaluate and discuss changes or other details with the student to finalize the curriculum for the semester. Suitable project choices will integrate multiple topics covered in the course and will require a detailed description and a brief literature review of relevant papers. A computational aspect is highly encouraged.

TR, 3:30 pm - 4:45 pm. Instructor(s): Benjamin Meier. Enrollment = 24.

Global health policy impacts the health and well being of individuals and peoples throughout the world. Many determinants of health operate at a global level, and many national policies, social practices, and individual health behaviors are structured by global forces. Concern for the spread of infectious diseases, increasing rates of chronic diseases and the effectiveness of health systems to provide quality care are among the daunting challenges to health policy makers.

With profound social, political and economic changes rapidly challenging global health, the aim of this course in Global Health Policy is to provide students with a variety of opportunities to understand the epidemiologic trends in world health, the institutions of global health governance, and the effects of globalization on global and national health policy.

This course provides an introduction to the relationship between international relations, global health policy and public health outcomes. The focus of

TITLE: Ethics and Food Policy
IDEAS IN ACTION GEN EDS: FY-SEMINAR; FC-VALUES

COURSE DESCRIPTION
If you eat, you are impacted by federal, state, and local food policies. These policies are, in turn, shaped by values. Over the course of the semester, we examine the values that underpin different approaches to food policy, including food labeling, nutrition assistance, agricultural subsidies, and responses to food deserts.

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?

Some seats are reserved through a reserve capacity in this section for first year students.

PLCY 101H.001 | Making American Public Policy
MWF, 10:10 am - 11:00 am. Instructor(s): William Goldsmith. Enrollment = 24.
This course provides a general overview of the role of history in public policy, the policymaking process, and the substance of major domestic and global public policy challenges. It exposes students to the conceptual and analytical perspectives necessary for understanding and playing a direct role in policy making. This course will illuminate policy and political challenges in areas such as tax policy, social policy, education policy, health policy, foreign policy, and homeland security. We will explore the inherent tensions that emerge between good ¿politics¿ and good ¿policy¿ in a number of these substantive policy areas. Honors students will pay particular attention to the role of politicians (elected officials) and experts (policy researchers) in the making of public policy. Students will work to develop their skills in effective oral and written communication, including making oral arguments, presenting research findings, and writing for policy audiences.

PLCY 210H.001 | Policy Innovation and Analysis

This course will introduce students to public policy as a discipline and the policy analysis process. The process involves defining a public problem and understanding stakeholders and their perspectives; describing public problems with quantitative data; understanding market failures and other rationales for government involvement; selecting criteria relevant for decision-making; constructing policy alternatives; evaluating the different alternatives against the stated policy criteria; and making and communicating a recommendation. This is a research-based and communication-intensive course, which requires the completion of a policy brief in several, iterative steps. The course incorporates current events and relevant case studies to motivate and explain the policy analysis process.

Students will explore the Restorative Justice movement in the United States. Local advocates from indigenous communities and racial equity initiatives will present and participate in this class. Students will have opportunities to understand the success and limitation of Restorative Justice in prisons, schools, and communities and will develop an understanding of how racism and poverty underpin systemic injustice. We will practice the tools of Facilitated Dialogue and Circle, and learn how communities, schools, and organizations utilize Restorative Practices to build connection, strengthen relationships, and repair harm.

This graduate-level course aims to offer a broad overview of the emerging field of social entrepreneurship. Social entrepreneurship is about creating novel, scalable, and sustainable solutions for critical social problems, using tools and techniques commonly associated with business entrepreneurship. Students will explore concepts, theories, and applications associated with social entrepreneurship. The course will involve reading, discussions, presentations, teamwork, and written assignments.

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?
Only first-year students (and transfer students who completed <24 hours of post-high school college coursework at another institution before their first semester at UNC) can enroll in this class. If you are a transfer student, refer to the UNC Catalog (https://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/ideas-in-action/#transferstudentstext) for additional information. Honors first-year students may not enroll in this class; they should only enroll in an Honors First-Year Seminar or Honors First-Year Launch.

ENROLLMENT PROCEDURES
Students may only enroll in one (1) First-Year Seminar OR (1) First-Year Launch during their time at UNC. Most seats in this section are reserved for incoming first-year students. The remaining seats are made available during Waves 1 and 2 and new first-year student registration sessions beginning in July.

POLI 233H.001 | Comparative Politics of the Middle East
This course is designed as an introduction to contemporary Middle Eastern politics for advanced undergraduates. The goal is to provide students with the historical background and theoretical tools to address key questions about the region: 1) How has Western colonialism shaped contemporary state development? 2) How do patterns of authoritarian rule differ in the region and why do they persist? 3) Why do some Middle Eastern countries suffer from sectarian and political violence while others do not? 4) What accounts for the region's current economic underdevelopment? 5) Why have Islamist parties emerged as prominent opposition forces within some countries? And finally, 6) Why have citizens across the region risen up to try to overthrow dictators and authoritarian regimes?
To explore these questions, the course combines systematic analytical approaches to big questions with concrete knowledge of events and developments in

This course explores the institutional makeup, political processes, and impact of international organizations on global politics. International organizations (IOs) have become increasingly important in resolving a wide range of global problems and are key players in the current system of global governance. IOs reflect state efforts to bring more order to the anarchic world in which they operate. This course offers a historical perspective and explores a number of approaches to understanding IOs. The thread that ties the diverse themes together is the issue of state sovereignty and how

While the global movement of products, services, ideas, and information is increasingly free, the movement of people across borders remains tightly controlled by governments. This control over international migration is a highly contested issue, and it is complicated by the fact that never before have so many people had the ability to move from one country to another while at the same time governments have never had so much power to control this movement. This class explores the moral, economic, political, and cultural dimensions of this movement across international borders. The class is based on discussions (as opposed to lectures) and tackles thorny questions like: do we have an obligation to let poor people into our rich country? what constitutes persecution? how do foreigners affect national identity? how should citizenship be allocated? We will pay particular attention to the distinction between migrants who move voluntarily (immigrants) and those who are forced to flee (refugees) - is this an important distinction to make, and does one group deserve admission more than the other? No prior knowledge or experience is needed; instead, students need to be ready to dig deep into all sides of migration issues through

Enrollment cap for continuing students is 95. The remaining 5 seats are reserved for incoming transfer students. All remaining seats will become available during Open Enrollment starting Aug.

POLI 276.001- Major Issues in Political Theory

Democratic Political Theory: Common Issues in Democracy

This class is about democratic theory. We will read from ancient to contemporary (from Aristotle to contemporary works) and explore common issues in democracy (e.g. the tyranny of the majority, unequal political representation, the rise of mis/disinformation...etc).

Enrollment cap for continuing students is 42. The remaining 3 seats are reserved for incoming transfer students. Please contact Millie Tan (millie.tan@unc.edu) if you have any questions.

POLI 405.001 Local Politics in the United States

This course provides an introduction to the politics of local governments in the United States. Topics covered include the economics and history of urban agglomerations, local governments' place in the American federal system, the role of race and immigration in how parties and coalitions govern, whether local governments are responsive to voters, and the role cities play in shaping housing, education, climate, and criminal justice policy. The course will take students outside of the classroom to engage with current election campaigns and policymaking in Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and Durham.

This course engages the European Union and the political causes and consequences of Brexit, nationalism, political polarization, and Trumpism. What kind of polity is emerging at the European level? How is European integration contested? Is European integration the beginning of the end of the national state in western Europe, or will states harness the process within their current institutional structures? In this class, students will have an opportunity to analyze the character and dynamics of European integration and the current economic crisis by reading speeches of contemporaries, evaluating alternative theories of European integration, and by using additional resources.

This course has a double purpose: to think critically about one of the world's most important experiments in governance—the European Union and to probe the future shape of politics in the West and the wider world.

The course will critically assess the emergence of the Europe Union, Brexit, the future of the EU, the rise of nationalism, political polarization, and the

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?
Only first-year students (and transfer students who completed <24 hours of post-high school college coursework at another institution before their first semester at UNC) can enroll in this class. If you are a transfer student, refer to the UNC Catalog (https://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/ideas-in-action/#transferstudentstext) for additional information. Honors first-year students may not enroll in this class; they should only enroll in an Honors First-Year Seminar or Honors First-Year Launch.

ENROLLMENT PROCEDURES
Students may only enroll in one (1) First-Year Seminar OR (1) First-Year Launch during their time at UNC. Most seats in this section are reserved for incoming first-year students. The remaining seats are made available during Waves 1 and 2 and new first-year student registration sessions beginning in July.

PSYC 058H.001 | The Psychology of Mental States and Language Use

As adults we constantly make judgments about other people's beliefs, desires, goals, knowledge, and intentions from evidence like eye gaze and inferences from their words and actions. These judgments together can be called mindreading, or theory of mind (where "theory" refers to the theory someone might hold about another person's mental state, not a scientific theory). This information is known to guide some aspects of language use — for example, you wouldn't ask someone to hand you "that book" if they don't know it exists. But sometimes you might ignore what someone else does or does not know — for instance asking someone for "the red book" when that person is sitting in front of two red books. This course examines how children, adults, and individuals with autism infer other people's mental states, and how they use it to guide decisions during speaking and understanding. This seminar will follow a discussion format.

MWF, 12:20 pm - 1:10 pm. Instructor(s): Charlie Wiss. Enrollment = 24.

This course will focus on providing an overview of many of the major psychological disorders, with a focus on adult disorders. The major objectives of this course will be for the students to:

- Gain mastery of the diagnostic criteria and identifying features that are associated with each disorder
- Identify and distinguish the disorders
- Have a thorough understanding of the etiologic theories associated with each disorder.
- Understand the major treatment approaches associated with each disorder.

The course will utilize a variety of formats including lectures, discussions, videos, and group presentations. We will attempt to move beyond the definitions of the disorders toward a more nuanced understanding of how they manifest in real life and how modern social, cultural, and biological forces

Title: Psychology of Race and Racism

Course Description: This course offers an overview of research investigating the psychological underpinnings and impacts of racialization, racism, and racial inequality. The course will center research in social psychology, but will also draw from work in other areas of psychology (e.g., developmental), as well as from other social science disciplines (e.g., sociology, political science, public health).

Requisites: Prerequisites, PSYC 101, 260, and either PSYC 210 or 215.

This course has prerequisite requirements.

Last day to add to a course wait list is June 27 for continuing undergraduate students and August 7 for new students.

PSYC 533H.001 | The General Linear Model in Psychology

TR, 9:30 am - 10:45 am. Instructor(s): Dan Bauer. Enrollment = 24.

Goals of the course: Evaluating hypotheses through the statistical analysis of empirical data is one of the cornerstones of modern science. In this course, we examine how the General Linear Model (GLM), including the multiple regression model, is used in psychological science. Goals of the course are for you to:

- Gain an understanding of how to specify GLMs that are both appropriate for your data and that provide direct tests of theoretically motivated hypotheses.
- Become competent in fitting GLMs within the statistical program R.
- Become a thoughtful and critical consumer of psychological research using the GLM

Title: September 11: Origins, Consequences, and Where Do We Go from Here

Ideas in Action Gen Eds: FY-Seminar

Course Description
This first-year seminar will reflect upon the September 11 terrorist attacks in the United States, exploring how the terrorist attacks occurred and why the U.S. intelligence community and policymakers failed to anticipate and prevent them as well as the subsequent effects on the United States, the Middle East, and the world. The instructor, a former intelligence analyst, will lead students in discussions and in-class exercises to encourage critical analysis of the implications of terrorism, particularly on United States national security. A variety of assignments will require students to assess the causes and results of American national security decisions and alternative decisions that might have been made, supported with research and evidence.

PWAD 101H.001 | MAKING AMERICAN PUBLIC POLICY
MWF, 10:10 am - 11:00 am. Instructor(s): William Goldsmith. Enrollment = 2.
This course provides a general overview of the role of history in public policy, the policymaking process, and the substance of major domestic and global public policy challenges. It exposes students to the conceptual and analytical perspectives necessary for understanding and playing a direct role in policy making. This course will illuminate policy and political challenges in areas such as tax policy, social policy, education policy, health policy, foreign policy, and homeland security. We will explore the inherent tensions that emerge between good ¿politics¿ and good ¿policy¿ in a number of these substantive policy areas. Honors students will pay particular attention to the role of politicians (elected officials) and experts (policy researchers) in the making of public policy. Students will work to develop their skills in effective oral and written communication, including making oral arguments, presenting research findings, and writing for policy audiences.

This course introduces you to world politics from an analytical, social scientific perspective. The goal is to understand why and how political actors in the international arena make decisions that affect us all. Why do nations fight? Why do they cooperate, both economically and politically? Why do we have... such a hard time solving the puzzle of global warming, or poverty? How can we understand the mechanisms that encourage cooperation over conflict in world politics? This course goes beyond learning how others have studied problems in world politics. Our goal is to demonstrate how theories of world politics can be constructed and applied, and, in turn, to have you engage in this process of application using cases drawn from recent and current events.

TITLE: Jewish Spain: History and Culture Across the Hispanic World

IDEAS IN ACTION GEN EDS: FY-SEMINAR; FC-AESTH

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This seminar explores the history and culture of Jews in the Golden Age of medieval Spain, as well as how modern Hispanic cultures have interpreted and reimagined this historical past. We will explore how this fascination with Hispanic Jews overlaps with a variety of topics such as national identity, anti-Semitism, liberal democracy, colonialism, exile, and Holocaust memory, among others. Throughout this journey across time and space, we will think about the relevance of Jewish Spain, to our present by working with a diverse group of cultural products that includes poetry, paintings, film, memoirs, and novels. The texts we will study come from numerous Hispanic cultures: Spain, Argentina, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Guatemala, and Cuba. No knowledge of Spanish or

Class Equivalents: ROML 55/55H

Course Description:
This seminar focuses on the literary production of Latinos living in the U.S. Using a variety of materials (essays, documentaries, films, music) and English-language texts (novels, short stories, plays, poetry) we will examine works by Chicano, Peruvian-American, Nuyorican, Central-American-American, Dominican, and Cuban-American writers. Topics to be discussed include: Latino or Hispanic? What’s in a Name?; The Politics of Bilingualism; The Search for Home in Migrant, Rural, and Urban Environments; The Many Faces of Machismo; Religion and Spirituality in Latino Communities; Forms of Prejudice and Discrimination; Music as a Cultural Bridge. All readings will be in English, though knowledge of Spanish is desirable.

IDEAS IN ACTION GEN EDS: FY-SEMINAR

Course Description: Throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, numerous Iberian intellectuals promoted the idea that Portugal and Spain could combine efforts to overcome the crises that plagued the Peninsula. The Iberian intelligentsia came up with theories whose aim was to bring Portugal, Spain, and their... ex-colonies closer together. In this course, students will become familiar with the contemporary histories of Portugal and Spain and with Iberian literature. Students will study culture from perspectives that may inspire them to reflect upon concepts such as decadence and identity. Furthermore, we will discuss the connections between the end of the Iberian colonial adventure in America and the crises that led the elites of both countries to meditate

This course provides an introduction to the study of language (the science of Linguistics) through an exploration of how humor uses structural and discourse properties of human language for comedic effect. Students will examine how different features of spoken and written language, as well as contextualized communication are put to the service of jokes, comedy skits, cartoons, and other kinds of wordplay. We will use both instructor-contributed and student contributed clips, anecdotes, jokes, tiktoks, etc., in order to illuminate why we find them funny (or not!), what can we learn about language from our reactions (or lack thereof!), and just plain have fun in the process.

For more information, please visit https://honorscarolina.unc.edu/academics/courses/#register

Spanish 261H is a fifth semester course that uses a variety of texts (literature, movies, newspaper articles, speeches, and essays) as a basis for reviewing grammatical concepts, developing writing competency, refining analytical skills, and improving overall communication abilities in Spanish. Through work on authentic and original texts, this course continues to focus on refining the students' language skills, as well as further their developing critical analytical capacities. With the readings and films, students will explore their socio-historical context and analyze the application of different linguistic structures as tools employed to create meaning and convey a message. Students will be expected to do a significant amount of reading and writing in Spanish 261H.

Note: This course is the prerequisite for all the Spanish minors and majors at UNC. Students may not receive credit for both SPAN 261 and SPAN 267. This

IDEAS IN ACTION GEN EDS: FY-LAUNCH, FC-QUANT

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?

Only first-year students (and transfer students who completed <24 hours of post-high school college coursework at another institution before their first semester at UNC) can enroll in this class. If you are a transfer student, refer to the UNC Catalog (https://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/ideas-in-action/#transferstudentstext) for additional information. Honors first-year students may not enroll in this class; they should only enroll in an Honors First-Year Seminar or Honors First-Year Launch.

WHO CAN ENROLL IN THIS CLASS?

Only first-year students (and transfer students who completed <24 hours of post-high school college coursework at another institution before their first semester at UNC) can enroll in this class. If you are a transfer student, refer to the UNC Catalog (https://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/ideas-in-action/#transferstudentstext) for additional information. Honors first-year students may not enroll in this class; they should only enroll in an Honors First-Year Seminar or Honors First-Year Launch.

ENROLLMENT PROCEDURES

Students may only enroll in one (1) First-Year Seminar OR (1) First-Year Launch during their time at UNC. Most seats in this section are reserved for incoming first-year students. The remaining seats are made available during Waves 1 and 2 and new first-year student registration sessions beginning in July.

Very Important: Honors students who intend to register for a fall 2023 Honors course, should do so during Wave 1 or Wave 2. When open enrollment begins on April 24, Honors course registration will be suspended in order to reserve all remaining seats for incoming first-year Honors students. Continuing students will not regain registration access for Honors courses until August 7. For more information, please visit https://honorscarolina.unc.edu/academics/courses/#register

WGST 101H.001 | Introduction to Women's and Gender Studies

This survey course, will explore some of the questions and topics at the heart of the study of and the struggle to end gender-based oppression (sexism or patriarchy). We will consider how it is that social or cultural constructions such as masculinity, femininity, heterosexuality, and homosexuality come to seem natural, biological, or innate and how and why feminists have challenged and continue to challenge these constructs.

Some of the main themes or ideas we will emphasize through lectures, readings, discussions, films, assignments, and the inevitable final exam are:

1. gender is a collective, institutionalized social construction or ideology, not a biological fact or an individual free choice;

This is a blended course that meets in person once per week on Wednesday with required consumption of recorded and other multi-media content in advance of the weekly in-person sessions.

This course provides essential tools that anybody interested in business should know. We will analyze theory and practice of the major financial decisions made by corporations. The goal of the class is to teach you 1) how to value firms and project opportunities using methods drawn from the theory of corporate finance 2) to develop an appreciation of how financing decisions impact project and firm value and 3) how to develop effective ways to visualize and communicate spreadsheet analyses. By definition, the course is designed to be ¿hands-on¿.

Prerequisite: BUSI 408 with minimum grade of C

Upper-level BUSI courses are not available for FYS.

This is a year-long course that begins in the Fall semester. The emphasis of this course will be on the decisions that must be made by, and/or for, the ultimate investor, and the analytic tools and empirical evidence that can help inform such decisions. The objective of this course is two-fold: first, to provide financial analysts with the analytical skills needed to aid such investors; and second, to help individual investors utilize and evaluate the services offered by analysts. Students will apply the principles and techniques of Investment Management by operating as financial planners (analysts) for the Kenan-Flagler Financial Planners. This course will engage students in managing a real portfolio student managed fund.
ENROLLMENT REQUIRES APPLICATION AND PERMISSION OF KFBS.

We are looking forward to an exciting semester in the Fall 2023 Current Issues in Law & Medicine course, but we need to address some logistical issues:

1. As indicated on the course schedule, this class will meet on Tuesdays from 10:15 to 11:55 a.m. at the Medical School. Allow 20-30 minutes each way for transportation. There is no student parking available.

2. Due to the differences between the Law School and Medical School schedules, it may be necessary for Law students to attend at least one additional class session (date/time still to be worked out) to ensure we meet requirements for class time.

3. Because this course is cross-listed with the Medical School, our normal drop/add rules do not apply. The Medical School does not permit MD students to drop the course; for fairness reasons, we are adopting the same rule for JD students. After August 15 you will not be permitted to drop this course. Non-SILS students are allowed to register for INLS 151, 201 and 161. However, seats are prioritized according to year (freshman, sophomore, and junior). If you receive a 'reserve capacity not met' error message for an open course (green dot), it means that all seats reserved for your year are currently filled. You must add yourself to the waitlist in Connect Carolina, as we will not be keeping an internal waitlist. We will enroll from the waitlist as seats become available. Seniors are not allowed to enroll in these 3 courses.
*Undergraduates can only be on one waitlist at a time and 17 hours is the max during early registration.

We will begin to fill available seats from the waitlist in early August. If you are not waitlisted, you will not be allowed to enroll.

Non-SILS students are not allowed to register for all other INLS courses as they are restricted to INLS major, minors and graduate students during early registration. NON-SILS students will need to add yourself to the waitlist in Connect Carolina for the course you are interested in, as we will not be keeping an internal waitlist. We will enroll from the waitlist as seats become available.

Undergraduates can only be on one waitlist at a time and 17 hours is the max during early registration.

Non-SILS students are not allowed to register for all other INLS courses as they are restricted to INLS major, minors and graduate students during early registration. NON-SILS students will need to add yourself to the waitlist in Connect Carolina for the course you are interested in, as we will not be keeping an internal waitlist. We will enroll from the waitlist as seats become available.

*Undergraduates can only be on one waitlist at a time and 17 hours is the max during early registration.

INLS 750 is more business oriented while INLS 752 is more library/archives oriented. Both provide the foundation for digital curation. SILS students can take either course but not both. PSM students should take INLS 750.
