"Focusing on the music of Taylor Swift, this course aims to develop student's critical skills through close examination of her music and analysis of the broader set of issues facing musicians in the popular music industry. Students will be able to describe the contributions of Swift's oeuvre using musical and literary vocabulary, analyze her eras using the popstar career lifecycle model, and trace the shifting cultural expectations of pop artists today. Students will be invited to share their expertise and personal experiences related to the 'Swiftie' community with its insular fan culture from music video Easter eggs to friendship bracelets...Are you ready for it?"

Abolition Theory & Praxis

This course is a deep dive of the study of abolition history, theory, and practice primarily within the United States. During the course, we will grapple with the distinction between carceral abolition and reform, discuss key conceptual frameworks and political battles, explore the relationship between prison abolition and other radical movements, and think deeply about the history and future of abolitionist organizing.

This 5 week course aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the global refugee crisis and force migration in general while focusing on the Middle East, in particular Syria and Iraq, examining its causes, impacts, and potential solutions. Through the voices of refugees themselves, students are invited to engage with the human side of the crisis, connecting on a deeper level and potentially driving meaningful change in perceptions, policies, and support systems.
